BOY KILLED UNDER AUTO

Enid, Okla., Sept. 18.—While riding on the running board of an automobile conveying him to school, George, the 8-year-old son of Mrs. A. H. Webb of this city, fell under the wheels of the car just before it stopped in front of the school building and was almost instantly killed. A HAMMER OR A HORN

The rule holds true, so all the people say.

Whether in religion, business or play.
"The Booster's" a prince, the "Knocker's" a thorn.
Then, you, "Sell your Hammer and buy a Horn."

Praise home products, and buy of the home crowd.
Fair "Summit City," of thee we are proud.
Here is the place where good boosters are born.
So, down with the Hammer, Up with the Horn!

We want good roads and the very best town;
We want fine business for the whole year round;
The best prices for wheat, oil, cotton and corn.
Hate the bad Hammer, but love the good Horn.

The grouch knocks our city, banks, churches, schools;
"Preachers, teachers, doctors," he says, "are fools."
"Eat your base slander," we shout with hot scorn.
"You'll not be able to Hammer our Horn!"

We aim to make Ardmore the very best;
With us agreeing, so say all the rest.
"O," cries the Knocker, "my sins must be borne,
All I hear is that pestiferous Horn."

All hail, the spirit of the "A. A. A."
Born to put Ardmore on the big Highway!
Grouchy old Knocker, we leave you forlorn,
And keep blowing our victorious Horn.

The faithless Knocker will be long dead;
Just judgment on him is even now said.
In the brighter dawn of that coming morn,
He will sleep on, 'mid blasts of our Horn.

If you want to stand in with the auto crowd,
Help to make the glad noise both long and loud.
There is just one way, sure as you are born.
"Sell your old Hammer and Buy a New Horn."

First say your prayers, then the knocker knock down.
If you are a friend of good Ardmore town.
Let love, truth, justice her temples adorn,
Then all hands blow with the big Booster Horn.
—BEN JOSEPH.
